

2015 Edible Gardening & Skill-Sharing Program

Urban Eatin' is partnering with CNRC and Essential Foods in Elmwood to offer gardeners in the Chalmers neighbourhood access to food gardening workshops, skill-sharing activities and community garden maintenance throughout the 2015 gardening season.

If you have any questions, please contact Dale at 204-669-0750 or chalmersrenewal@mymts.net.

Natalie of Urban Eatin' with Green Teamers Josh (centre) and Elvis (left) at Lord Selkirk School's new three sisters garden.

Who is Urban Eatin'?

Urban Eatin' is a small group of gardeners committed to using organic and holistic techniques to build and maintain vegetable and herb gardens for Winnipeg's private residences and public facilities. We envision a more just, sustainable food system, where people in urban spaces can work towards localizing food production, lessening our ecological footprint, working cooperatively, building community

Urban Eatin' received funds from the National Co-op Challenge to put towards building food security and edible gardening initiatives in four Winnipeg areas throughout 2015... and one of these is the Chalmers neighbourhood of Elmwood!

You can find out more about Urban Eatin' at: www.urbaneatin.com

SUCCESSION PLANTING & SUMMER PROGRESS

Tuesday July 28th, 2015

5:30pm-6:30pm

FREE, Pizza & Refreshments Provided
Meet at the Elmwood Community Gardens
(@ Levis Street at Watt Street)

(in case of heavy rain we will meet at the Elmwood East Kildonan Active Living Centre @180 Poplar Ave.)

We will discuss using succession planting to boost your garden harvest. Bring all of your gardening questions, and tell us how things have been going in your gardening world this year!

